THE HARD CONTRACTS OF THE POOR.

The Emma Mine Suit Drawing to a Close.

EDISON'S ELECTRICAL COMPLICATIONS.

A decision rendered yesterday by the General Term of the Marine Court on the question of the validity of contracts of what are known as "instalment" or "congitional sales" will doubtless be of sorrowful interest to the very numerous poor who have been compelled to avail themselves of that system of purchase. Pithe principal kinds of goods purchased on these terms, the two latter almost exclusively by persons of very moderate means; but their bargains in relation to them, though hard, seem to be regarded in law as binding. The majority of suits growing out of such contracts are brought in he Marine Court, and the present decision, fortified, as it seems to be, by decisions in other courts, may be regarded as the law by which suitors of this class must bound. The facts of the case and substance of the decision may be briefly stated as follows :- George W. Sathbun contracted with Horace Waters & Son for a piane at the agreed price of $375. The piane was to be paid for in three instalments. The first instalment was paid, the others not, and in consequence of such cefault Waters resumed possession of the piano. The contract provided that if the second and third instalments were not paid the first was to be applied as rent for the use of the piano. Rathbun died, and his widow and children, to whom he had previously assigned his claim, sued Waters to recover damages for taking the piano out of their possession. The jury at the Marine Court Trial Term awarded them $15.50 damages, and from the judgment entered on this verdict the defendants appealed. The appeal was argued at the General Term before Judges Alker and McAdam, who have just rendered their decision disposing of the appeal. Judge McAdam, delivering the opinion of the Court, in speaking of these sales, says.—"It will have been observed from the peculiar conditions of the contract that Rathbun received possession of the piano on what is commonly known as a time contract upon the conditional sale or instalment plan. This is a system of recent growth, quite prevalent in large cities, and is patronized chiefly by people of limited means who are by it enabled to politain without ready money the possession and use of whatever household goods they require, with what may be termed an inchoate right of ownership therein to mature into an indefeasible title, upon payment of certain instalments at specified times. The conditions renerally imposed are that if default be made by the proposed purchaser, therefore, of the conditions, at the time and in the manner specified, the title of the original owner is not only preserved animpaired, but his right to the immediate possession is lipso facto restored. If the proposed purchaser, therefore, retains the property after such default, he has but a bare possession without regulations, at the sufferance of the counter, who may at once resume possession in any lawful manner. These countracts, variously drawn, have been declared valid by the courts as well as by learned text writers." The opinion, which is elaborate, cites largely both from the reports and elementary works, gives extrac contract provided that if the second and third instal-

TELEGRAPH INVENTIONS.

In the Special Term of the Superior Court, yesterday, before Judge Sanford, there was commenced the trial of the suit of the Atlantic and Pacific Telegraph Comr -v against George B. Prescott, the Western Union Telegraph Company, Lemuel W. Serrell and T. A. Edeson. It is charged, on the part of plaintiffs, that in October, 1870, Edeson and George Harrington entered into a partnership agreement for five years, whereby the latter, with some specified exceptions, was to have a half interest in all of Edeson's inventions during that period. They were then working on the development if the automatic telegraph patent. In April, 1871, Edeson conveyed to Harrington two-thirds of the automatic patent, and all patents past and future connected with it, and gave him power of attorney to convey his own one-third. Up to that time Harrington had contrib-nted about $40,000 toward the inventions. In January, 1875, Harrington assigned his interest to Jay Gould for 1875, Harrington assigned his interest to Jay Gould for $50,000, and he, in turn, assigned to plaintiff. In the meantime Earson had assigned a half interest to Prescott, electrician of the Western Union, and applied for patents Nos. 14 and 100, which the Commissioner dended were belonging to Edeson and Prescott. The latter assigned to the Western Union, and this, the plaint ffs eay, was contrary to agreement, and a temporary injunction was obtained against the issue of the patents to the defendants. The object of the present suit is to obtain a decree continuing the injunction. The answer of the defendants is that, they owning Stern's duplex instrument and desiring to perfect it, they agreed with Edeson to experiment iff their expense, instrument and desiring to periect it, they agreed with Edeson to experiment ift their expense, and to pay him for the results; that the agreement with Prescott was subject to these; but they advanced money to Edeson and Prescott, and had a quadruplex instrument working in 1874, and an agreement was made for remuneration. The case was presented to the Court, by counsel, as one both difficult and complex. But the leading questions involved are whether Edeson's contract with Harrington was binding on the former, so that all the inventions he might make during five years subsequently would belong one-hall to Harrington, and could not be sold without his consent; or whether it related simply to the automatic instruent, as the power of attorney would, seem to do; or whether by the contract of 1873 with the Western Union Company they became entitled to the duplex and quadruplex inventions during the pendency of the contract. The case is still on.

THE EMMA MINE SUIT.

The hearing of testimony in the suit of the Emmi Silver Mining Company against Trenor W. Park and H. H. Baxter was yesterday-the sixty-fourth day of the case-brought to a close. The last witness examined, Professor Blake-previously examined, but recalled, and who testified that, in his opinion, the property was a "pocket" mine-was examined by Mr. ighton, but the evidence counsel sought to short was ruled out by the Court. Mr. Chittenden, of counsel for the defence, then began the summing up on the part of the defendants Park and Baxter, and which occupied the session to the hour of adjournment. Counsel said that for the first time in the case he should make the point that this suit, which was an action at law against a director of a company for fraud and concealment, could not be maintained. In law the defendants constituted a part of the company, and for the first time in the history of jurisprudence this would be an instance of a company suing itself should the action be maintained. In England, where this company obtained all its laws with regard to mercantile and shipping business and limited liability companies, no such case as this had ever been brought into a court of law. And in the books in which all kinds of questions had been raised in actions at law of this kind no precedent for this case could be found. Counsel held that the relation of a director to a company is fiduciary and proper proceedings by one against the other was by equity and not by actions at law. This suit was for fraudulent representations and concealment, and some one must be found guity of intentional frauds or concealment. On that pian proposition counsel said he would be willing to rest typically and not appropriately of intentional frauds or concealment. On that pian proposition counsel said he would be willing to rest typic extends the terms mine was an hourst and fair transition; that the purchasers knew of any risk they fan and deemed themselves competent to deal with it. Hoose who bought the mine still hold to the integrity of the sale. Professor Sillman's statement that the mine was a true vein is true, and the fact is it is a true vein to the term of the firm of the product. If it were now worked by common skill and on the part of the defendants Park and Baxter, and

MISS DANSER'S WILL.

The contest over the will of the late Mary Danser was formally opened yesterday before Surrogate Calrib. There was quite a formidable array of relatives and the immediate friends of relatives and witnesses on either side present in court. The principal contestant, Smith M. Danser, the uncle of the deceased, was there with his counsel, while the executors of the will and their counsel also put in appearance. The proceedings were opened by the appearance of Randolph W. Townsend, who drew the will, and who was a subscribing witness thereto. He testified that he as subscribing witness thereto. He testified that he mas introduced to the deceased, Miss Danser, in her lifetime, by Thomas F. Jeremiah, president of the freetime, by Thomas F. In Part 1 of the Marine Court, before Judge Alker and a Jury, yesterday, Henry W Wheeler recovered a Judgment for $136 77 against Alexander Hudunt. The bill was for ice, but did not remain unpaid because of either unwillingness or inability on the part of Mr. Hudunt to pay it. He was notified by the Kniekerbooker Ice Company not to pay Wheeler, from whom he had purchased, as the latter was only the agent of the company, and that the company would hold him (Mr. Hudunt) responsible. Wheeler claimed he had purchased from the company and was not its agent, and the jury, in so finding, have relieved Mr. Hudunt from his embarrassment as to which of the rival claimants he should pay.

GENERAL SESSIONS-PART 1. Before Recorder Hackett A PIEND IN HUMAN PORM.

The court room was crowded yesterday, the occasion being the trial of the "Rev. Paul T. Valentini, Ph. D., D. D., Li. D.," who was arraigned by Assistant District Attorney Russell and charged with the commission of outrages upon the little boys and girls who resided at the prisoner's "college for children, dormitory and cheap eating house," at No. 508 Pearl street. The prisoner, who is forty years old, is said to be a man of culture and good address. Mr. Russell, in opening the case for the prosecution, gave an insight into the prisoner's career, which, it will be seen, has been somewnat varied, especially from a religious point of view. Valentini was born in Ubresio, Italy. He was ordained a priest of the Roman Catholic Church, but his diagraceful conduct subjected him to an ignominious expulsion and inoprisonment. It would appear that he next turned up as a professor in the Methodist Seminary at Florence, and that after remaining there some time he finally made up his mind to come to this country. Obtaining letters of introduction to leading members of the Methodist Church in Beston, he arrived in New York, and on the strength of these letters he managed to get a professorship in the Drew Theological Seminary, where he remained until the close of the scholastic year. Signor Valenting a next appearance is as pastor of the Methodist Mission Church; but as this enterprise proved unprofusible he abandoned the Methodist Church altogether and now makes his bown as a member of the Profestant Episcopal (Italian). Church, which was presided over by the Rev. Mr. Stander. He was so imbated with religious southments that he embraced the ministry, and was finally ordained by the Rev. Bishop Potter on the 17th of November, 1870, it being understood that he was to act as a missionary among the Italians in this city. He subsequently entered into partnership with a country man hamed Barnabo, and became the superintendent of a cheap eating house at No. 505 Paral street, similar institutions under bis circulous as alternative and No. 202 Chaitham street. Signor Valentimi undertook to instruct the little wanderers who songart reluge in his institution, and under the close of a teacher committed gross crimose. His evil doings were spread alrond and Bishop Potter suspended him from the ministry. Then followed a disagreement between him and Barnabo, a dissolution of partnership heing the result, he retaining the Pearl street establishment and Barnabo, and dissolution of partnership heing the result, he retaining the Pearl street establishment and Barnabo that in Franklin street. the sentence the Assistant District Attorney intimated that there were several other charges against Valentini, including those of a number of little girls, upon whose testimony the prisoner would undoubtedly be convicted. The Recorder, who seemed to be much impressed with the gravity of the offence, said this was the most atrocious charge that ever came under his notice and he was sorry that the law did not permit him to sentence the prisoner to death. Under the circumstances he could do nothing but impose the extreme penalty which the law provided—namely, ten years at hard inform in the State Prison.

ANOTHER PENITENT MILE DEALER. Ignatz Offner, a milk dealer, carrying on an extengive business at 220 Third street, was arraigned on the charge of adulterating milk, in violation of the ordi-nance of the Board of Health. The prisoner pleaded guilty and the Recorder fined him in the sum of $250

GENERAL SESSIONS-PART 2 Before Judge Gildersleeve. RECEIVING STGLEN GOODS.

Ellen Buhler, of No. 23 Clark street, was arraigned Ellen Buhler, of No. 23 Glark strees, was arraigned by Assistant District Attorney Herring, charged with receiving stolen goods. Three lads, it appeared, stole a silk dress and a pair of pantaloons from the dyeing and cleaning establishment of Wilham Galt, in Wash-ington street, and sold them to the prisoner for sev-enty-five cents. The boys pleaded guilty and testified against the accused, who, however, denied the charge. She was convicted and remanded for sentence

AN ALLEGED PARRICIDE a youth named George Krik was arraigned for trial on the charge of killing his father, on the night of the 13th of January last. The testimony showed that the seceased, Nicholas Krik, a German, had frequently threatened his son, and on the day in question loaded a revolver with that end in view. He had been drinking on that day, and when his son came home his mother, fearing fatal results from any interview, warned him to retire to his room. The boy was sub warned him to retire to his room. The boy was subsequently aroused by hearing his mother ecreaming, and on coming out his father rushed at him, having in his hands a knife and a pistol. The father aimed the pistol at him, when the son setzed a hatchet and struck him on the head. Nicholas Krik died from the effect of the blows and his son surrendered himsolf to the police. His mother gave him an excellent character, and, it appearing that he had only used the hatchet at a moment when his life was in imminent peril. Coinnel Fellows, his counsel, moved the Court to direct a verdict of acquittal. Assistant District Attorney Herring nitimating that he thought such a course to be warranted by the evidence Judge Glidersleeve so directed the jury and the prisoner was discharged.

A FORGER'S FATE. Assistant District Attorney Rollins moved the Court for sentence in the case of Cyrus G. Clarke, who it will be remembered, was convicted on Monday last of utter-ing twenty-one forged bonds of $1,000 of the Central Pacific Railroad, with intent to defraud the East River National Bank. Judge Sutherland, before whom the prisoner was tried, sentenced him for the term of five years in the State Prison.

TALE OF A DOG.

Two working men were brought into the Tombs Police Court yesterday, one of whom carried a little Skye terrier dog in his arms. The other kept at a respectful distance from the animal, which continued to snan

and snarl at him as if a misunderstanding of a serious nature existed between them. Man-Afraid-of-the-Dog

THIRTEEN MEN AND A PIG.

THE LOSS OF THE GERMAN BARK ONKEL ADER-MANN IN MID OCEAN AND THE RESCUE OF THE CREW BY THE STEAMER NEW OR-Nors.—By this amendment an index is required as a part of every case. E. O. PERRIN, Clerk.

LEANS-NO WATER FOR FOUR DAYS. The steamship New Orleans, Captain George A. Dearing, after being delayed eighteen hours outside Sandy Hook on account of the dense fog. On board of the steamship were thirteen men, the Captain and crew of the German bark Onkel Adermann.

ROCHESTER, April 19, 1877.

The following is the day calendar of the Supreme On the 17th of this month, in latitude 33 31, longi-Court, General Term. Fourth department, for Friday, April 20, 1877:—Nos 101, 118, 122, 124, 23, 94, 95, 120, 120, 131, 132, 134, 135, 138, 120, 139, 148, 145, 146, 148, 150, 151, 154 and 155. tude 76 35, the lookout on the New Orleans sighted the hulk of a vessel pitching and tossing helplessly a short distance to windward. The Captain was notified, and he ordered the steamship to bear up for the wreck. UNITED STATES SUPREME COURT. The sea was very heavy, and it was not without considerable difficulty that the steamer's boat could make The following cases were argued in the United States Supreme Court yesterday:

No. 233. Kennedy et al vs. United States—Error to the Gircuit Court for the Eastern District of Tennessee.—This was a suit upon a bond conditional for compitance with the internal revenue laws in respect to a bonded warehouse established by Kennedy, and the cinel question was whether it was sufficiently stamped, the bond being for $20,000 and having only a twenty-one cent stamp. The Court ruled that it was immaterial whether it was sufficiently stamped or not, as it could be stamped at any time before being offered in evidence, and the judgment was for the government. The plaintiff in error does not appear here, and the case was submitted on the printed argument of the detendant, filed by Assistant Attorney General Smith for United States.

On arriving alongside it was found that the ship was entirely full of water and the waves flowed freely over the decks; nothing remained free from the water but a portion of the topgaliant forecastle, and that only partially, and upon that small space were huddled hirteen men-the officers and crew of the ship. When the steamer's boat reached the ship's side the crew down their faces, raised their hands in grateful thanks to Heaven for their deliverance. One of them—and he seemed to echo the feelings of all-spoke the first words the rescuing crow heard, "Mein Gott, Ich danke, case was submitted on the printed argument of the detendant, filed by Assistant Attorney General Smith for United States.

No 655. Chesapeake and Ohio Railroad Company vs. The Commonwealth of Virginia—Error to the Supreme Court of Appeals of Virginia, and three other cases.—The question in these questions is whether that portion of the property of the company which originally belonged to the Virginia Central Railroad Company and that which has been acquired by purchase from the State of Virginia since its incorporation are liable to axaaton by the State, it being admitted that the profits of the company have not amounted to ten per cent on its capital, and the company insisting that it was originally exempted from taxation until such time as it did return such a profit. The Court of Appeals sustained the tax on the ground that in such cases where there is any doubt it shall be resolved in favor of the government. It is here contended that a proper construction of the various enactments will insure a decision against the right of the State to impose any tax upon any portion of the company's property until it afforts the profit provided for. W. J. Robertson for plaintiff in error, R. G. Daniel for defendant.

On motion of William Brown, Walter Evans, of Louisville, Ky., was admitted to practice as an attorney and counsellor of this court.

Nox. 655, 656, 657 and 658 assigned. The Chesapeake and Ohio Raifroad Company, plaintiff in error, when Evarts for the plaintiff in error, Nox. 254. The Etha Lite Insurance Company, plaintiff in error, and by N. R. Sharpless for the defendant in error.

No. 240. Richard Sullivan, trustee, &c., et al., appellants vs. the Porthand and Kennebee Railroad Compellants vs. the Porthan words the rescuing crow heard, "Mein Gott, Ich danke, wir sind gerettet."

The Unkel Adermann saled from Doboy on the 10th of April loaded with timber. On the 13th while lying to in a very heavy gale from the east-southeast and under close reef, an exceedingly-heavy sea struck the snip and knocked down manitopsail, washed away deck houses, deck load, bulwarks and stanchions. The mast was immediately cut away and the snip righted, but not before the hatches had been washed away and the hold filed with waiter. The water continued to rise and each succeeding sea washed the doomed vessel fore and att. The men with the officers took to the topgailant forecastle and lashed themselves fast. It was well they did so, for during the night of horror the forecastle was more than obe-third of the time under water. Next morning the alarming discovery was made that there were no provisions or water to be had. A very small pig, however, was fortuntely washed on to the foreastle pig, however, was fortuntely washed on to the foreastle helpiessly. The men had no water and nothing to cat but the pig for four days, when they were rescued by the steamship New Orleans. When on board the steamer, where they were treated with every consideration by the Captain and his officers, the men at ravenously. On their arrival in this city last evening their Captain proceeded to the German Consul's, who will attend to their wants while in the city and sold them home to Germany.

THE SAYED.

The names of the rescued are:—Captain, Man; First Officer, William Puttenbach; Second Officer, Karl Keel; sailors, Enton Borer, Franz Remsen, John Makelskie, Martin, Hentz, Zurman Sitske, William Reasoner, Franz Bigot, Frederick Schultzer, Gastait Compf, Henry Bankretch.

THE VESSEL.

The Onkel Adermann was a wooden vessel of 467 tons burden. She was built at St. John, N. B., in 1850, and was owned at Switemunde.

TRAPPING BEARS.

The gloomy weather did not prevent Wail street people from being merry yesterday over a reported trick to which some prominent bear operators were said to have been subjected. Report said that nearly all the more prominent of the bears were summoned to appear before the Grand Jury to tell what they knew of recent rumors, and that before leaving the street they had left orders to cover their short contracts for Delaware. Lackawanna and Western at every decline of oneeighth per cont. When the bears got to the Grand and that his life was rendered miserable by the Skye terrier. (An unusually loud snart from the dog.) Gardner stepped back a pace and continued to relate his woes. The animal lost no opportunity, he stated, to snap at him and his wife. He now came to court for justice, and nothing would appease him short of the Jugge killing the dog on the spot. The Justice explained that he never carried a pistol, and even if he did he would hardly feel justified in personally shooting the animal. Gardner smiled increduously and remarked in an undertone that things had come to a strange pass when a judge couldn't shoot a dog. O'Brien was noticed to move his hands nervously and at mathe broke out:—"Take him, Your Honor," said he, placing the dog on the Judge's desk, "take him, I would much rather you would have him than myself." The magistrate was about to decline when O'Brien interrupted, "It's all right, Jugge, it's all right; I've thought it all over. You can have him; take him along." When at length it was made clear that such a proceeding would not be in strict accordance with magisterial dignity O'Brien, somewhat crestfailen, gathered up his dog. The case was referred for adjudication to Mr. Henry Bergh. Jury room it seems they were told they could not be Jury from it seems they were told they could not be coxamined until Monday. Meantime some persons sold the stock very freely, knocking down the price two per cent. On their return the bears were consideably chaptined to find that they had bought at prices so much higher than they need have purchased this stock if on the street. Some persons "tong" of the stock and aware of the orders left by the bears, are said to have rushed out the stock and thus caused the tumble.

SEIZURE OF LACES AND CIGARS.

The officers of the Special Treasury Agent obtained information that some of the crew of the bark Zouave, lately arrived from Europe and now discharging cargo at the Atlantic Docks, at Brooklyn, had brought contraband goods, which they intended to smuggle ashore, A watch was placed on the movements of the sailors, and yesterday the revenue officials succeeded in seizing ten sets of valuable lace curtains and two bolts of fine alpaca. Inspectors of the Custom House also soized, yesterday, on board of the Havana steamer City of Vera Cruz 400 choice cigars.

that William Riker should be put under bonds to support her according to his means. The defendant claims that though he believed when he married her that she was a single woman he has since discovered evidence it, the contrary and that she has another husband living. Mrs. Riker admitted yesterday on cross-examination that she was married in 1859 to a man named Charles E. Bullard, who is now in prison in Massachusetts, on a charge of burglary, for which crime he was sentenced for twenty years. She turther admitted that she had heve with Bullard three years. She applied for a divorce from him in 1876; but, though she had not as yet obtained it, she considered that the fact of Bullard being sent to prison for that length of time was sufficient. Henry Willis Alexander, of No. 35 West Fourth street, on Wednesday evening met a young girl on Sixth avenue, with whom he become engaged in a pleasant conversation. He walked a few blocks with her, evidently taken by her sprightly manners, but on her, evidently taken by her sprightly manners, but on approaching the corner of Twenty-second street he felt a hand in his pocket, and the next moment he saw his lady friend spring from his side and jump on board a Sixth avenue car going down town. When he recovered himself he discovered that he had been robbed of $400. He gave a description of the girl to Officer Dunian, of the Twenty-minth precinct, and that officer late in the evening arrested Mary Wilson, residing at No. 216 West Twenty-sixth street.
